What is the Institute for Creative Teaching?

Now entering its 37th year, The Institute for Creative Teaching (ICT) is an immersive, three-day professional development experience that brings together educators, artists, and community leaders from across Colorado. The Institute features a mix of hands-on workshops, artist talks, networking events, and other opportunities designed to help educators explore new ways to inspire creativity and deepen learning in their classrooms.

I loved that this conference was so inclusive and all encompassing... Any person with any professional background could have benefitted from this conference.... It is one of the most meaningful conferences I have attended during my tenure of 30+ years of teaching.

-Past ICT Attendee

I learned so much... and my world was opened up to new possibilities in the classroom and outside the classroom. I feel so enriched from the experience.
